

Christmas Stories Prologue

Hi all,

I am attaching a few stories I wrote for my own classes in previous years, which touch on the real meaning of Christmas. The stories could be used in different ways with different classes, e.g. they could be read by first years and then they could be asked to write what they consider the message of the story to be and/or to illustrate the stories as cover for a Christmas card.

Alternatively they could be read to Transition years and they could be asked to write their own story, which illustrates the real meaning of Christmas.

Best wishes for a happy Christmas

John Scally